Join us

It's almost that time of year where we all down tools and check that the BBQ has gas.

Before you disappear, we invite you to join us at the Hotel Palisade in Sydney's historic Rocks district for a few drinks and a glance back at the year that was. We look forward to sharing some war stories and lessons learnt and most importantly connecting with you before we break for the festive season.

We hope to see you there!

Gift Policy

Change history

Version	Changes	Date
1.0	Original	January 2017

Purpose

This document outlines the OAIC's policy on gifts or benefits. It gives guidance on what to do when gifts or benefits are offered to an OAIC staff member or are to be provided to others. Implementation of the policy will ensure that the integrity and reputation of the OAIC are not compromised.

Introduction

As an independent regulatory agency, the integrity and reputation of the OAIC are critical. From time to time OAIC staff may be offered gifts or benefits. These situations may be sensitive, and they must be handled in a way that demonstrates that OAIC staff members cannot be improperly influenced.

At all times, staff members must act in accordance with the Australian Public Service values and code of conduct.

Principles

In general:

- gifts or benefits that may be perceived as representing a conflict of interest should not be accepted
- gifts or benefits worth over $50 must be recorded in the Gift Register, whether they are accepted or not
- gifts or benefits worth $50 or less may be recorded in the Gift Register, and
- if a gift or benefit is provided on behalf of the OAIC, it must be recorded in the Gift Register.

Definition

A gift or benefit may include but is not limited to:

- offers of cash or shares
- bottles of wine, manufacturer's samples or personal items
- promotional materials, including clothes, books, USBs or DVDs
- sponsored travel
- airline competition prizes
- airline upgrades
- meals or other hospitality
- accommodation and hire car discounts
- entertainment, such as meals, seats at sporting or theatre events or golf days
- discounts on commercial items

- free or discounted places at training courses, conferences or seminars
- plants or flowers
- lottery tickets, and
- small items like pens, notepads or keyrings.

This policy applies in all circumstances including where gifts or benefits may be offered to staff members outside normal working hours or while they are on leave.

Managing Offers of Gifts or Benefits

Should I accept?

Always exercise caution. The following should be taken into consideration:

- is the person or organisation in a contractual or regulatory relationship, or involved in a purchasing/tendering process, with the OAIC?
- is the person or organisation's primary purpose to lobby Ministers, members of Parliament or agencies?
- would accepting be likely to create an actual or perceived conflict of interest?
- would accepting be likely to create a feeling of obligation?
- would accepting the gift or benefit reflect poorly on the OAIC if reported in the media or raised before a parliamentary committee?

Where possible staff members should discuss offers of gifts in advance with their Assistant or Deputy Commissioner.

Accepting a gift

In some cases gifts may be offered in good faith and with no intention or ability to undermine impartiality or independence. An example could be a small gift made by an international visitor. In such cases refusal of a gift may cause embarrassment.

Any gift accepted by an OAIC staff member is accepted on behalf of the OAIC and becomes the property of the OAIC.

Gifts or benefits worth over $50 must be reported promptly to the Deputy Commissioner through the Executive Officer, using the Record of Gift Offered to the OAIC Form. The Deputy Commissioner may decide that the gift will be retained for official purposes, disposed, or retained by the staff member who received it.

The 'Record of Gift Offered to the OAIC' form will be placed in the Gift register.

Staff members may report gifts or benefits worth $50 or less, however this is not a mandatory requirement.

Not accepting a gift

If a gift or benefit worth over $50 is offered but refused, the details and circumstances must be recorded on the Record of Gift Offered to the OAIC Form.

The 'Record of Gift Offered to the OAIC' form will be placed in the Gift register.

Staff members may report gifts or benefits worth $50 or less that are offered but refused, however this is not a mandatory requirement.

Providing Gifts

In some cases the OAIC may offer a gift for official purposes, for example to acknowledge a guest speaker. Any gifts purchased from OAIC funds must be approved in advance by the Deputy Commissioner and reported on the Record of Gift Provided by the OAIC.

The 'Record of Gift Provided by the OAIC' form will be placed in the Gift Register.

Gift Register

The Gift Register will be maintained by the Executive Officer and held by the Deputy Commissioner.
